Stocks rose to close near their best levels of the session. The Dow climbed 138 points to 15318. The S&P 500 gained 13 points to 1651. The NASDAQ advanced 30 points to finish at 3482. The major average advanced for a second consecutive day as investors await the results of the Fed's two-day policy for indications whether the central bank may start to taper its bond-buying program. Today's economic data also provided a tailwind to the market. Before the open, a report showed consumer prices rose 0.1% in May as food prices declined for the first time in four years. A separate release revealed building of new homes increased 6.8% last month to 914,000 from a revised 856,000 in April. All 10 sectors in the S&P 500 advanced on the session. Industrials were the best performing group. General Electric was up 2.4% to $24.33. Shares of FedEx added 1.1% to $99.48. Telecom and consumer discretionary stocks outperformed. AT&T was 1.2% higher at $36.17. Best Buy increased 2.4% to $28.06. Hormel was a notable decliner, falling 3.6% to $39.19 after the meat producer reduced its full year earnings forecast. Breadth was positive on the NYSE by 2-1 on issues and 18-5 on volume. NYSE Composite volume totaled more than 3.0 billion shares. Over at the NASDAQ, advancers topped decliners by 7-3 on issues and 15-4 on volume. Treasuries were little changed with the 10-year note flat to yield 2.18%.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average (a registered trademark of Dow Jones & Co., Inc) is an unmanaged index composed of 30 common stocks. Stocks selected are established U.S. companies that are leaders in their industries and are not limited to industrial sector stocks. The stocks in the index currently represent about a fifth of the $8 trillion-plus market value of all U.S. stocks and about a fourth of the value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The NASDAQ Composite (a registered trademark of Nasdaq Stock Market, Inc.) is an unmanaged index of common stock. The NASDAQ Composite Index measures all NASDAQ domestic and international based common type stocks listed on The Nasdaq Stock Market. Currently, only stocks that have an exclusive U.S listing on the Nasdaq Stock Market are eligible for inclusion in the Composite (unless included prior to January 1, 2004).

The NASDAQ-100 Index (a registered trademark of Nasdaq Stock Market, Inc.) includes 100 of the largest domestic and international non-financial securities listed on The Nasdaq Stock Market based on market capitalization. The Index reflects companies across major industry groups including computer hardware and software, telecommunications, retail/wholesale trade and biotechnology. It does not contain securities of financial companies including investment companies.

The S&P 500 (a registered trademark of McGraw-Hill Companies) includes 500 large cap stocks, which together represent about 75% of the total U.S. equities market. Companies eligible for addition to the S&P 500 have market capitalization of at least $3 billion. (as of January 2009)

The Dow Jones Emerging Markets Total Stock Market Index includes equity securities with readily available prices that trade in emerging markets. The index is a subset of the Dow Jones Global Total Stock Market Index.

The Dow Jones Americas Total Stock Market Index includes equity securities with readily available prices that trade in the Americas region. The index is a subset of the Dow Jones Global Total Stock Market Index.

FTSE 100 Index s a capitalization-weighted index of the 100 most highly capitalized companies traded on the London Stock Exchange. The equities use an investibility weighting in the index calculation. The index was developed with a base level of 1000 as of January 3, 1984.

CAC 40 Index is a narrow-based, modified capitalization-weighted index of 40 companies listed on the Paris Bourse. The index was developed with a base level of 1,000 as of December 31, 1987. As of December 1, 2003 the index has become a free float weighted index.

DAX Index is a total return index of 30 selected German blue chip stocks traded on the Frankfurt Stock Exchange. The equities use free float shares in the index calculation. The DAX has a base value of 1,000 as of December 31, 1987. As of June 18, 1999 only XETRA equity prices are used to calculate all DAX indices.

Barclays US Aggregate Bond Index is composed of the Barclays Capital U.S. Government/Credit Index and the Barclays Capital U.S. Mortgage-Backed Securities Index, and includes Treasury issues, agency issues, corporate bond issues, and mortgage-backed securities.

Style Indices [S&P/Citigroup Growth/Value] *

The S&P style indices (a registered trademark of McGraw-Hill Companies) are market capitalization-weighted. They are the result of dividing the market cap of each parent index into approximately equal growth and value indices. Each company in the parent index is identified as pure growth, pure value, or neither pure growth nor pure value. Companies that are classified as neither pure growth nor pure value will be listed in both sub-indices.

Dow Jones Sustainability World ex-U.S. 80 IndexSM tracks the performance of the largest companies globally, excluding the U.S., that are included in the Dow Jones Sustainability World Index℠. The 80 companies are weighted by their sustainability score.

Dow Jones Asia-Pacific indexes comprise the Dow Jones Sustainability Asia Pacific Index (DJSI Asia Pacific) as well as a narrower subset index excluding companies that generate revenue from alcohol, tobacco, gambling, armaments & firearms.

STOXX Europe 600 Index is derived from the STOXX Europe Total Market Index (TMI) and is a subset of the STOXX Global 1800 Index. With a fixed number of 600 components, the STOXX Europe 600 Index represents large, mid and small capitalization companies across 18 countries of the European region: Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Iceland, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and the United Kingdom.
